Princetonians among Many Aiding Migrant Workers near Cranbury

Like many small towns, Cranbury, New Jersey, has problems that outsiders usually never see or hear about.

Only eight miles from Nassau Street, Cranbury sits on top of a fertile plain that defies those who make fun of New Jersey's nickname, "the Garden State." The village itself was first settled in 1697, and Main Street now is dotted with antique shops and homes marked by plaques from the Cranbury Historical and Preservation Society.

Judging from Main Street, Cranbury's sole industry must be the antique business.

But the real industry of the Township of Cranbury, and of those townships immediately to the north and many miles to the south, is agriculture. Wheat, soybeans, corn, potatoes, peaches, apples, lettuce, celery, swiss chard, and other crops all in the vicinity of Cranbury.

Walk south on Main Street, past Restoration Shop Sales at No. 29, where two gleaming vintage touring cars are on display, turn right at the tree-lined drive leading up to the old Cranbury schoolhouse, and — if it is a Wednesday evening at about 6 — you will see the people from Cranbury and surrounding towns who have real problems.

They are the migrant workers, who provide most of the manual labor for the farmers.

In the peak season, more than 400 migrant workers live in 20 separate camps in an area bounded by Route 1 and the New Jersey Turnpike, from Edinburg to Jamesburg. Their camps are probably no better or no worse than those of thousands of other seasonal farm laborers who each year come to New Jersey to help it live up to its nickname.

But if the migrants in this area are any better off than their counterparts elsewhere in the state, credit must go to an assorted group of volunteers and social organizations whose efforts are centered at the old schoolhouse in Cranbury.

Citizens from Cranbury, Princeton and other communities, the Family Service Agency of Princeton, the Visiting Nurses Association of Middlesex County, the Princeton Interfaith Council, the Princeton YM-YWCA, the public libraries of Cranbury and Princeton, and other groups have joined forces with the state and Federal governments in an assistance program that seems to work.

Most encouraging is that, as state and Federal assistance have declined in past years, the Cranbury migrant workers program has even improved somewhat in that time.

"It's a great big grassroots thing that's going on here," says Mrs. Rachael Armstrong of Cranbury. "We don't have as many migrants here as other areas do, and the problems they have seem manageable. We feel we're accomplishing something."

The program continually faces new obstacles. The old schoolhouse, which is the hub of the operation, may be torn down — unless the Cranbury Board of Education can find a tenant who can afford to maintain the 77-year-old structure. But the volunteers seem to take such adversities one at a time, and this summer the program is continuing as usual.

Every Wednesday night through September, the bargain-basement store (now in its sixth year) is opened, and migrants or — anyone else — may buy used clothing, shoes, boots, blankets and household goods priced from 5 to 10 cents to $1 tops. Proceeds are used to buy items not often donated — blankets mostly — and to support other aspects of the assistance program.

Last Wednesday night, 20 minutes before the store opened at 6 p.m., a group of 25 persons were gathered in the stairway leading down to the store. They were mostly women, a few young children, and all were black. In the next two hours, one woman walked out with a bassinet, another with a toaster, and many more with boxes of clothing.

Suit May Be Filed against Queenston Common

Court action against the developers of Queenston Common condominium, whom environmentalists and Borough officials charge with damaging Harry's Brook, is under consideration, Councilman Robert S. Powell revealed this week.

"We're exploring whether we can go to Superior Court with affidavits from Queenston's neighbors and the Borough engineer," Mr. Powell explained, "citing the situation as a health-and safety hazard and asking the judge for a 'stop' order until things are cleared up."

"If only the state would say firmly that the stream encroachment has been violated, we could move," the Councilman continued, "and we're exploring what powers the Borough may have to withhold certificates of occupancy until the state does act."

Until the state takes action, Mr. Powell acknowledged, "there is no satisfactory legal solution."

Prompt Action Sought. Last Wednesday, Mayor Robert W. Cawley, meeting on another matter with Richard J. Sullivan, the state's Environmental Protection Commissioner, outlined the Queenston problem to the Commissioner and to Charles Pike, at that time still director of the Bureau of Water Resources. (He has since left this state position to take another job.)

Mr. Powell reports that Commissioner Sullivan directed Mr. Pike to check out the problem immediately and tell what he found. The Borough expects a report this week.

Meanwhile, O. Kline Fulmer, of Fulmer and Bowers, architects of the condominium project, stands by the statement he made early in August on behalf of his firm and the Sandean Construction Company, Queenston's builders.

"Sure, some dirt and fill got into Harry's Brook during construction," Mr. Fulmer says, "but it has always been our intent to remove it immediately. No dirt has ever been deliberately dumped in and we are going along with the state's requests."

Permit Issued. Queenston received a state stream encroachment permit on the condition that no dumping of fill or debris was to be done within 20 feet of the stream, and that the slope grades be left in approximately their natural state.

Mr. Powell says he has visited Queenston and believes the condition of Harry's Brook violates the state's requirements.

"The problem only came to light early this year," Mr. Fulmer explains. "The Planning Board had asked us to straighten a bend in Harry's Brook and the state approved. We finished at the end of 1972, and found that the steepness of the bank was accentuated where the new culvert meets our Gordon Way street."

"I found the situation so severe in January that I called in the state, because we were anxious to fix it. Our 'Building A' is fairly close and the northern bank of the stream needed modifications for construction of terraces. There was no intent whatsoever on our part to go over encroachment lines."

Erosion Existed. Mr. Fulmer added that workmen haven't worked on the stream bank behind Building A for six months.

Mr. Fulmer also says that behind "Building S," Harry's Brook "bulged out" and was already eroding one side of the bank. The contractor got big boulders from the site and "in engineering fashion," Mr. Fulmer explains, used them to put the stream back to its original width. "It was not a question of debris thrown in," he maintains.

Back in Borough Hall, Mr. Powell says that in March of this year, John O'Dowd, chief supervising engineer of the Encroachment Section of the Bureau of Water Resources, gave Queenston 20 days to correct the situation, "but the developer went right ahead," Mr. Powell charges, "he asked for more time, and the state agreed."

This Is Princeton

At this point, Sandean hired Clarke and Rapuano, the landscape architects, to work on a solution. Two sets of plans have been presented. Mr. Powell says the state rejected the first ones this June.

The second set, completed in July, suggests two possibilities: enclose the brook for about 60 feet east of the culvert, or build retaining walls.

Inadequate Solutions. State engineers asked for comments on these proposals from Borough officials, the Friends of the Princeton Environment and the Borough's own Environmental Commission. These groups, Mr. Powell says, declared the solutions inadequate because they didn't provide for restoring the brook, but the state brushed the comments aside — their engineers apparently wanted comment only on the physical design of the enclosure.

Last Tuesday, Borough Engineer Donald Harney went to Trenton personally, and got from the state a letter setting forth Queenston's responsibilities.

"We have told Commissioner Sullivan the letter is unsatisfactory," Mr. Powell says. "It doesn't give Queenston any deadline — and this developer has repeatedly ignored deadlines. The letter calls for stream widening; it suggests a retaining wall of rip rap (an amalgam of stone and mortar); it doesn't give much attention to possible flood hazards downstream; and it indicates to us that the state has given up trying to enforce its original requirements. The brook now has real flooding hazards.

"So," Mr. Powell concludes, "Sandean doesn't have to correct all this within a specified length of time, and he has won another round."

Deadline Unnecessary. "We don't need a deadline," Mr. Fulmer remonstrates. "We're eager to get going."

He says he plans to confer again with Clarke and Rapuano to see what can be done, and adds, "we don't think there is a flood hazard downstream. Harry's Brook is not a very big stream."

The Borough's hope, Mr. Powell thinks, lies in Mr. Sullivan's willingness to get his people to act. The Commissioner, Mr. Powell suggests, has the power "to go to court tomorrow," for an injunction. Or, he says, the state could hold an administrative hearing, complete with fines and punitive action because "they have all the evidence they need. Why do they continue to do the developer's bidding?"

Cahill to Join Meyner, Hughes As Ex-Governor Living Here

By next January, Princeton may have three former governors of New Jersey among its residents.

It was reported this week that Gov. William T. Cahill, whose term expires December 31, has purchased a new six-bedroom home at 276 Gallup Road. A value of $135,000 was placed on the house, which stands in a small development just off Princeton Pike near the Princeton-Lawrence Township border.

Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey governor from 1954 to 1961, came to Morven from Phillipsburg, and then purchased a home at 16 Olden Lane. His successor, Richard J. Hughes, was a Trenton resident before serving the state for two terms ending in 1969. He now lives at 90 Westcott Road.

Gov. Cahill left Collingswood in Camden County after he was elected four years ago. Now, with several of his children in Princeton schools, he is understood to be planning residence here as a private citizen. On a long range basis, he is also considering purchase of a lot in the Bedens Brook area of Montgomery Township through the developer William Augustine, a golfing partner and personal friend of the governor's.

The three men are expected to have a common profession when Gov. Cahill steps down. Like his predecessors, he, too, will reportedly join a law firm when he leaves office.

Migrant Workers

Mrs. Helen Lee of Cranbury, the store manager, reported receipts of $80, all of which would be plowed back into the operation.

The store is the magnet that draws the migrants, and other service groups set up their wares near it.

Right in front of the schoolhouse Mrs. Carol Nermoe, of Princeton, a librarian in Woodbridge, set up a rack of paperback books, and magazines. Soul music seeped from a cassette tape recorder.

Titles ranged from "The Life of George Washington Carver," to "Roberto Clemente," to "The Autobiography of Malcolm X." Three young men rode by in a car. "When are you going to get Playboy?" they shouted. The books are free.

Eye Problems. Around the corner was a mobile unit of the New Jersey State Commission for the Blind. It was making one of its periodic stops in Cranbury. "This work is very satisfying," said the attendant. "Virtually everybody that we see will have some kind of eye problem."

The schoolhouse is also the site of the summer school for migrant children, which runs through next week. Fifteen currently are enrolled. Beginning August 22, the schoolhouse will be the departure point for migrant workers and their families going to weekly clinics at Middlesex Hospital in New Brunswick.

The same groups that support the schoolhouse activities also sponsor the Sunday socials now in progress at the Princeton "Y." From 2:30 to 8, migrant families are treated to swimming and other recreation, a hot dinner and a bingo game. Ninety attended the first one held this year.

All of these efforts, of course, do not turn a potato field into a rose garden.

Idle Hours. "The whole system leads to the migrant being the way he is," says William Rhoads of the Hightstown office of the Princeton Family Service Agency. For the past seven years, Mr. Rhoads has spent much of his time in the fields and camps of the migrant workers.

Last Wednesday, sitting on the steps of the schoolhouse in Cranbury, he summarized the migrants' condition.

"Many migrants get the minimum wage, $1.75 an hour, but some get more," he said. "The trouble is that the average migrant family only works 100 days and makes $1,100 a year."

With the exception of Puerto Ricans workers, migrant laborers may sit idly day after day with no work. "Potato picking is practically all mechanized," the 35-year-old social worker explained. "Hand labor is needed only for a few days at a time. And if the price is low the farmer may keep them in the ground longer, waiting for a better price, and the weather plays a big part with any crop."

Labor Brokers. "Under a special government arrangement, Puerto Ricans are guaranteed a certain number of hours per week," said Mr. Rhoads. "So the Puerto Ricans end up working the farms that grow leafy vegetables, that require almost daily attention anyway.

"The others end up working the potatoes, peaches and apples."

One other ingredient in the system, the social worker said, are the contractors — kind of the real estate brokers of the migrant labor business.

"Contractors usually transport the migrants to and from the jobs. For this they usually get a set fee from the farmer," Mr. Rhoads said. "But some contractors also take a slice of the migrants' pay, or pay them off partly with booze, or arrange kickbacks from merchants who sell to migrants."

Self-Worth. Many migrants have a poor self-image, and they are easily manipulated by the contractors," he said. "Our goal here is to educate them, instill some self-worth, and make them aware of their legal rights and the services available to them."

Legislation has improved some of the physical trappings of the migrants' life in New Jersey. Housing codes have been tightened: flush toilets are mandatory, as well as cooking facilities.

Camps in the Cranbury area are frequently made of cinder block, with varying amenities. One has a recreation room equipped with juke box and pool table. Few, however, have any play equipment for children, and none have what even a transient would call "home atmosphere."

State support this year of migrant services has shrunk to about one-third of what it was last year. Federal support also has caved in.

Focal Point. One result in Cranbury is that the health clinic, which last year was conducted every Wednesday night in the store, will this year be at Middlesex Hospital in New Brunswick. Migrants will be bused there.

But because some workers must stay late in the fields, the last bus doesn't leave Cranbury until 9:30, and doesn't return until 11:30. Mr. Rhoads wonders if transportation will discourage some people from seeking medical attention.

The clinic will continue through October 24, but the bargain store, the focal point of activities at the school, closes the last week in September. Mr. Rhoads hopes the migrants will keep showing up on Wednesday nights.

And he hopes that at least some of them will be through with the harvest early. The going price for potatoes this year is one of the highest ever, Mr. Rhoads, who keeps track of such things, has his fingers crossed.

Sundoy Socials Here Boon to Migrant Workers

For many migrant workers and their families, Sunday is the brightest day of the week.

On that day as many as 100 migrants are transported from their camps to the Princeton YM-YWCA for an afternoon and evening of recreation and a dinner. Sponsored by various agencies and churches, with financial support also from the Cranbury bargain basement store, the Sunday socials will run through September 23. None are scheduled August 26 or September 2.

Although two or three churches usually are assigned to arrange each social, volunteers generally are needed each week to provide transportation to and from the camps.

Persons capable of instruction in arts and crafts, sewing, nursery school or swimming are also needed to help staff these programs. Contributions of bathing suits and towels are welcomed.

"These socials give migrants a sense of what life is like outside the migrant stream," said Bill Rhoads, a social worker. "During the week they have no place to congregate, no place to socialize."

Volunteers may call George Holmes, 921-8548 or 924-0996, or Sandy Stoddard, 921-2603 or 924-9773.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm.

The word "vitamine" was coined in 1912 by the Polish chemist Casimir Funk and applied by him to the substance which we know now as vitamin B or thiamine. Vitamin B belongs to a group of chemical compounds known as "amines," and the idea behind the word vitamin came from this categorization of chemicals. "Vitamine" means literally "the amines of life," and when later they discovered basic substances which were essential to life but non-chemical, scientists changed the name's spelling to the word we know today—"vitamin."

A great selection of Hudson vitamins at catalog prices are available at THE FORER PHARMACY, 160 Witherspoon. We feature a complete line of sick room supplies, for sale or rent, including wheel chairs, walkers, commodes, hospital beds and supports. Thomson Hall to Be Demolished This Week

Thomson Hall, a part of Princeton's past for nearly a century and a half, will be demolished this week by its owner, Princeton Theological Seminary.

Weather permitting, a huge wrecking crane from Heaton Company was scheduled to begin the three to four day job this Wednesday, August 15.

Located on Stockton Street, across from Morven, the building had been a private residence for more than 100 years, before it began to serve as Borough Hall. Gradually deteriorating over the years, it had been abandoned since 1967, when the Borough moved to its new building.

William E. Lawder, Seminary treasurer, said it had no immediate plans for the site. For the interim, clean fill will be trucked in to level off the ground.

Built by Stockton. Thomson Hall was built shortly after 1825 by Richard Stockton, the "Duke," who lived across the street in Morven, for his daughter Annis, on her marriage to Senator John R. Thomson.

The senator later married Miss Josephine Ward, who also remarried and became Mrs. Josephine Thomson Swann. She eventually named the estate after her first husband, the senator.

The Borough came into possession of the property in the late-1930's under the terms of Mrs. Swann's will, which stipulated that her former home be reserved for the "use and enjoyment of the people of Princeton."

By 1962, however, it had become increasingly apparent that the old building could no longer contain all the departments of an expanding Borough government, and modernization was quite out of the question.

Cramped Quarters. The mayor and clerk's offices were in two tiny rooms to the left and right of the main entrance, the police were squeezed into a couple of rooms on the first floor, the board of health on the second floor, and the engineering department on the third.

Council meetings were usually held in a small room to the right on the ground floor except when a large crowd was expected and they were moved to the seldom-used auditorium nearby. Whenever it rained hard, during a Council meeting, a bucket was used to catch water leaking from the roof.

"I'd love to move out of here," then Borough Mayor Henry Patterson was quoted as saying in 1962, and eventually through a property transfer involving three parties, he got his wish.

In a court approval arrangement worked out to comply with Mrs. Swann's will, the Seminary bought the old Miss Fine's School building, no longer needed because of the creation of Princeton Day School on the Great Road.

The Seminary then traded properties with the trustees of the Swann estate, owners of Thomson Hall. This gave the Seminary its present property, adjoining land it already owned, and the Borough the 3.3 acre site upon which the new Borough Hall now stands.

The Borough moved into its new home in the fall of 1967, and a dedication ceremony was held December 3.

KOPP PROJECT SHELVED

When Appeal Is Denied. The controversial 28-unit apartment project planned by Edward C. Kopp III will be delayed indefinitely following rejection of his request by the State Department of Environmental Protection that he be exempted from its building ban.

It was last February that New Jersey froze all residential construction projects of a multiple-unit nature because sewage disposal facilities in the Princeton area are overburdened. The sole exemptions were those which already had site plan approval or actual building permits.

It was not until April 23 that a split vote of Township Committee brought final approval of Mr. Kopp's plans. The apartments had been scheduled to go up on a two-plus acre site near the Princeton Shopping Center, off Terhune Road.

Mr. Kopp is expected to submit a new, more detailed proposal for exemption within a few weeks. There is no indication, however, as to when improved sewage flow may be achieved for Princeton Township. The proposed Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority, designed to provide adequate facilities for the future, is still a subject of major controversy, and nowhere near the blueprint stage.

MATH STUDENT MUGGED

Loses $110 Cash. Steven H. Weintraub, 22, of 24 Dickinson Street, lost $110 in cash August 2 when two teenaged males carrying wooden table legs mugged him at 10:05 p.m. outside Fine Hall on the Princeton University campus.

The two youths approached Mr. Weintraub, a third-year graduate student in mathematics, and asked him if he had any dope. He said no.

Then they asked if he had 50 cents. Again no. At that point they told him they would take all his money.

The student ran off but slipped in the grass. The youths caught him, kicked him in the side and demanded his wallet. Mr. Weintraub gave it to them, and they removed the money and ran northeast on Ivy Lane towards Roper Lane.

Mr. Weintraub reported the incident to the campus security police who in turn notified the Township Police.

PEDESTRIAN JUMPED

In Prospect Gardeo. Last Tuesday at 11:30 p.m. Borough Police investigated the mugging of a 42-year-old man who was walking through the garden at Prospect on the University campus.

The man, a student in a summer program, was confronted by three males who asked him for a dime. They then knocked him to the ground, police said, removed his wallet and fled.

The wallet contained $10 in cash. The victim was treated at Princeton Medical Center for bruises of the face and head and was released.

MILLER CHARGED AGAIN

Premises Searched. In two weeks, 19-year-old John F. Miller had been charged with two counts of larceny, possession of stolen property, attempted escape, and breaking and entering. Borough Police accused him of swallowing a diamond ring from Lavake Jewelers and entering a Greenview Avenue house and stealing over $1,500 worth of jewelry and clothing.

He was being held in Mercer County Jail in lieu of a total of $52,000 bail.

Last Thursday, police searched bis residence at 7 Lytle Street. The result was the addition of yet another charge against Miller and an increase of $2,000 in bail.

Armed with a search warrant, Detectives Timothy Huizing and Thomas Michaud entered Miller's room at about 6 p.m. They said they recovered $530 worth of the items allegedly stolen July 23 from the home of Mrs. Carmina Toto — while her five-year-old grandson was watching television in the house.

The detectives also found a Princeton High School ring. After checking the initials on the ring against a yearbook, police contacted a student who told them his ring had been stolen from his locker earlier in the year.

The police then charged Miller, still in County Jail, with another count of possession of stolen property.

DRUG CHARGE FILED

Against Princeton Man. Douglas Griggs, 24, of 216 Witherspoon Street, was charged with possession of marijuana last Friday night, after he had been brought to Borough Hall to be served a motor vehicle warrant from Bordentown Township.

Pfl. Bernard Lenhardt picked up the defendant at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon streets at about 11:30 a.m. A small quantity of marijuana was found in his pocket.

He was scheduled to appear in criminal court October 3.

NEW PROCEDURE SET
For Town's Municipal Budgets.

"Under this new system, Princeton people will get two bites at the apple," is the observation of Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, commenting on new budgeting procedures that will go into effect this fall. Details are expected to be announced early in September.

Princeton's taxpayers — or anybody else with an eye for the dollar — will be invited to a series of informal public hearings, probably in November, and asked to comment on a tentative municipal budget.

Their comments, questions, suggestions and criticisms will be used to draw up the final budget. The second bite of the apple will come as usual, when formal budget hearings are held after the first of the year.

The new plan also gives Mr. Nini and the Borough's Administrator, Robert F. Mooney, a chance at something they've been itching to do for a long time: roll up their sleeves, plunge into the fact and figures and prepare the municipal budget all by themselves.

New Policy Welcomed.

In the past, the dedicated but busy and inexperienced elected members of Borough Council and Township Committee have hewn the budget themselves, regarding it somewhat bleakly as a "learning experience."

"I am very enthusiastic. I've been hoping for this for a long time," adds Mr. Nini. "It will be very helpful," grins Mr. Mooney.

"It should have been done this way all along," the Borough's Administrator adds. "We ought to prepare the budget, then give it to the governing body which has the final say."

Work in municipal offices will begin in October. At the informal public hearings that Fierce and loud.

For the first time in nearly two weeks, something more than a passing shower was scheduled to return to Princeton. Rain, possibly accompanied by its noisy counterpart, was due here from the Ohio valley, the Man reported.

Clearing Thursday and Friday would not guarantee a dry weekend, he added. Showers are a Saturday possibility after the humidity moves upward once more during an August that is prevailing above normal temperatures.

will follow, citizens can comment on departmental budgets like police, engineering, or health. For joint Borough — Township bodies, like the library or recreation, Mr. Mooney and Mr. Nini will join in holding the hearings.

The new schedule also allows municipal employees a breathing space during those busy weeks right after January 1, when they are occupied with new licenses for this and that, and a variety of new year chores. In the past, they had to work on budgets at the same time. Now, the budget will be out of the way.

Discussions of the new system have been under way for some months between Abbot Low Moffat, finance man for Township Committee, and Arthur P. Morgan, finance chairman for Borough Council.

AGENT'S COVER BLOWN

Held at Gunpoint. State Police at Hopewell reported that a young undercover narcotics agent was held at gunpoint for four hours last Friday in a Hopewell Township farmhouse when a drug transaction he was about to complete was interrupted by a tip-off telephone call.

Arrested on charges of threatening to kill the Somerset County agent were Steven Parker, 23; his wife, Bonnie, 25; Mrs. Tracy Carluccio, 24; all of Old Mill Road; and Thomas Lawrence, 21, of Raritan.

Mrs. Carluccio's husband, Paul, 25, who police say was not present in the house when the agent was held, was charged with possession of marijuana and hashish, as were his wife and the Parker couple.

Steven Parker and Lawrence were also charged with the armed robbery of the agent's revolver and identification papers which he had hidden in his car.

All the suspects except Lawrence were arraigned in Hopewell Township before Judge Nicholas Castoro. Steven Parker was remanded to Mercer County Jail to await a determination of bail, and the others were released on their own recognizance.

Suspect Fled. Lawrence, police say, fled the scene but then turned himself in the next day to Bethlehem, Pa., police. He was returned to Hopewell Sunday and was arraigned Monday in Mercer County Court.

According to State Police accounts, a Somerset County Prosecutor's investigation led the agent to the Old Mill Road farmhouse. At about 5:30 p.m., just before the agent completed a drug purchase, a telephone call was received by the suspects, warning them of the buyer's police connection.

Steven Parker and Lawrence, police said, then took turns holding the agent with a small calibre handgun. They also took the agent's own pistol and his identification papers, police said.

After about four hours, police said, the suspects decided to release the agent. He went to a nearby house and called the State Police at Hopewell.

State Police Detective William Hill said he has an idea about the source of the tip-off telephone call, but would not comment further.

PEDESTRIAN ARRESTED

For Assault and Obstruction. Borough Police Sunday arrested Harold (Doc) Humes, 48, whose address was listed as 11 Madison Street, and charged him with assaulting a police officer, obstructing passage on a cross walk, and assault and battery.

Humes appeared Monday night before Judge Philip Carchman, who set $1,100 bail. He was also examined by a psychiatrist and committed to Trenton State Hospital for seven days of observation.

According to police reports, Patrolman Kerry Klink observed Humes and a group of other presons standing at Nassau and Witherspoon streets and obstructing the passage of pedestrians.

Ptl. Klink asked the group to move three times. Two other officers, Jerry Patterson and Charles Harris, arrived at about 8:20 p.m. to assist Ptl. Klink. Humes, police said, became enraged and struck Ptl. Patterson with a walking stick before the three officers subdued him.

Ptl. Patterson was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations.

Humes told police his ribs were injured in the incident. He also was examined at Princeton Medical Center and released.

WOMEN'S LIB? Nina Dimitruk, 19-year old Princeton Junction resident, has broken the male barrier by pumping gas at the Sunoco service station on Nassau Street. First young woman here to hold such a job, she's a summer-time employee. Nina likes what she's doing and reports nothing but courteous treatment from Sunoco's male customers.

CAR TAKES A NOSE DIVE

Into Stony Brook. They say that Volkswagens can float. Whether or not a 1972 Oldsmobile sedan can do likewise remains to be seen, although a preliminary and altogether accidental test conducted last Thursday by a 20-year-old Trenton girl had somewhat discouraging results.

The girl, Lauren W. Limowitz, was driving north on Route 206 near Quaker Bridge Road at about 3:40 p.m. when the car left Route 206, jumped over a one-foot high retaining wall on the Quaker Road bridge, hit a tree and nosedived into a small extension of Stony Brook.

Township Police, who investigated, said the car came to rest with its front end in the water, and its back end leaning at about a 45-degree angle against the bridge.

Neither the driver nor her two male passengers, also in their 20s, were injured.

Police said the girl told them that the car's brakes failed as she lost control.

Extrication. Removing the car from the brook became a minor engineering feat. Because the front of the car was lodged against the fallen tree and in the water, a boom crane had to lift the car up over the bridge level.

Then a wrecker pulled the car back over the road surface where it was lowered by the crane.

Progress Report on Shopping Center Traffic

Maybe, by the end of this week, the paint cans will be opened and the Township can start painting the lines that will bring some order to Princeton Shopping Center traffic patterns.

Administrator Joseph R. Nini says he hopes the final agreements with Center management can be signed this week. Delays have been caused by vacation schedules, particularly that of George Warnecke, owner of the Center, who has been in California.

Under the final agreement worked out between Center and Township, the two will share equally in paying for pavement markings and signs. The Center will bear the whole cost of making gentle turns out of the sharp angles that now exist.

For example, in the northernmost of the two entrances to the Center, the sharp right turn a motorist has to make to get into the main stream of Center traffic, will be widened. Part of the wooden fence will be removed, some grass chopped away and additional black top laid down to increase the radius of the turn.

So far, there is nothing for Township police to enforce. But when the job is completed, police will move into the Center and start giving out violation tickets.

At first, according to Mr. Nini, police will issue "courtesy summonses," or warnings. Then, after a week or two, the legal axe will fall and drivers will be ticketed.

Among the new rules:

- 15 m.p.h. speed limit
- circulation lanes, which cars must stay within
- "no parking" zones
- police jurisdiction in case of accident.

Topics Of The Town

Police said the road surface was dry at the time of the accident. They speculate that the tree cushioned the impact of the car as it dove into the water, which was not deep enough to allow the Oldsmobile a true test of its flotation.

VEHICLE SANDWICHED

No Serious Injuries. A 1971 BMW driven by Katherine G. Wert, 44, of 6 Hodge Road, was slammed in the rear end by one car, and then head-on by another, in a bumper-car-like crash on Route 206 at Jefferson Road Sunday.

The BMW was demolished. Mrs. Wert, the only occupant of the car, escaped with a bruised chest and a whiplash injury. She was x-rayed at Princeton Medical Center and released.

Township Police said the accident occurred at 3:16 p.m., just as a light shower stopped falling. Mrs. Wert was driving south on Route 206, and had slowed down almost to a stop as a car in front of her turned left onto Jefferson Road.

Then a car driven by Ronald Rizzuti, 21, of Jersey City, hit her from behind, and knocked the BMW into the northbound lane of the road.

It was then hit head on by a car driven by John Buchanan of Kent, Ohio. He was driving north on 206 and the impact with the BMW spun it around 180 degrees and pushed it back into the southbound land, but facing north.

Vacation Delayed. Also injured slightly was Patricia Sass, 20, of Hillside, a passenger in the Rizzuti car. She was treated for a bruised right leg and released.

Mr. Buchanan, who was pulling a trailer behind his rented car, was out to test his brakes and buy gas prior to leaving with his family for a vacation in Nova Scotia.

All three cars had to be towed from the scene. The Buchanan vacation was delayed by several days.

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET

For Special August Session

A public meeting of the Princeton Regional Board of Education will be held Tuesday, August 28, at 8 p.m. in a new School Board Room in the Valley Road building.

At the meeting, the board will review the status of the middle school switch to the John Witherspoon School building, act on whatever staff contracts are ready and take any personnel actions that are necessary before school starts September 5.

NEW DATE FOR CONCERT

Appearing on the program will be the rock band, Trinidad; Cathy Blount and George Baily. Scheduled for August 24 are Free & Easy, Winslow and Barry Peterson.

"THE ALCHEMIST:" The one on the right (Daniel Berkowitz) with the shaving bowl, brewing up Ben Jonson-knows-what, for the gullible Ananias (Shirley Kauffman) in Princeton Theatre Company's production of Jonson's bawdy classic, "The Alchemist."

News Of The THEATRES

"ALCHEMIST" NEXT

A Bawdy Romp. The rogues in Ben Johnson's "The Alchemist" will cavort in the air-conditioned comfort of Rider College's Fine Arts Theatre during the Princeton Theatre Company's fourth production of the summer season.

"The Alchemist" will open this Thursday at 8:30 and will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday and the same days the following week. Sunday curtain time is 7:30.

In the back streets of Johnson's London, a phony sorcerer, a bawdy trollop and an unscrupulous servant connive to swindle an assortment of greedy fools. "The Alchemist" has been called "the best comic plot in English literature."

Daniel Befkowitz, a founder of the Princeton Theatre Company, will play the Alchemist himself. The scheming servant will be Walt Jones, whom audiences will remember as Sebastion in PTC's recent "Twelfth Night." Alice White will be the lusty Doll Common.

Other roles, including a pair of befuddled puritans, a crazy Spaniard, an avaricious glutton and and a slightly pregnant Dutch lass, will be played by Shirley Kauffman, Georgine Hall Freedman, Ernie Norris, Mark Capri, Marcia Ellian, Bob Thorson and Rich Ferugio.

Larry Strichmann is directing. A graduate of the Yale Drama School, he staged last summer's "What the Butler Saw" and "Joe Egg" for Summer Intime. Lowell Achzinger has designed the set, Bob Wascura the lighting and Gretchen Bullock the costumes.

Reservations may be made at 896-0009 between 10 and 6 daily and after 1 on Sundays.

SUMMER WIND-UP

"Tango," at Intime. The wild farce-drama "Tango," by the contemporary Polish playwright Slawomir Mrozeck, will be the final production of the season for Summer Intime. It's scheduled to open this Thursday and will play again this Friday and Saturday and August 23, 24 and 25 at 8:30. Early evening performances - 7:30 - will be given this Sunday, and Sunday, August 26.

Roxanne Hart, the 21-year-old director of "Tango" decided she wanted to direct the play after she read it for a course she was taking at Princeton. An actor as well as director, she played Araminta in "The Philanthropist" earlier this summer, and Electra for Theatre' Intime this past spring. She will begin graduate studies in the theatre this fall at N.Y.U.

As a guest star for "Tango,"

News Of The Theatres

Summer Intime has Donna Miklojcik, who has a long list of credits in regional theatre and is one of the professionals regularly appearing in productions of New York's Amateur Comedy Club. She has taught acting at Rutgers, and has directed works as diverse as "No Exit" and "You Can't Take it With You."

Another guest star is Vicky Paley, also a regional theatre veteran, who has appeared frequently off-off-Broadway at the Cubiculo and Hudson Guild Theatres. She is presently studying with Uta Hagen.

FOR KIDS, BUT. . .

Fun for Parents, too. "The Knave of Hearts," a joyous trip to the Kingdom of Hearts, is Summer Intime's play for children, on stage at Murray Theatre this Sunday, next Wednesday (August 22) and Sunday, August 26, each time in a 2 p.m. matinee.

Louise Saunders' imaginative play, half a century old, never condescends to its young audience, says Summer Intime, and is therefore quite as delightful for adults as for the young.

Denny Mitchell, well remembered in Princeton for his portrayal of the General in "George Washington Crossing the Delaware," is the director. He's using music, and some guest stars whom he met in the drama program at the YMCA.

Reservations for "Knave" may be made at 452-8181, between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m.

OFF TO THE MOVIES

With Summer Intime. Next week's three nights of films will begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. with "Nosferatu," the original German-made version of "Dracula," and on the same bill, Rudolf Valentino's "Blood and Sand," with the vamp, Nita Naldi.

Tuesday's bill will be "Golden Boy," the William Holden one about the young man torn between his love for the violin and his skill as a boxer.

Next Wednesday, August 22, Summer Intime will screen "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" with James Stewart. It was one of the most popular films of the 1930's, and describes the way an idealistic country boy learns the realities of political life.

Films are shown in McCormick Art Museum (air-conditioned), behind Murray Theatre. Admission is $1.

THE JACKAL: Edward Fox, is cast in the title role, in Fred Zimmemann's "The Day of the Jackal," held over for a second week at the Playhouse.

"PROMISES. . . ."

Musicale Fanfare, "Promises Promises," the Broadway musical hit, will close the season for Hightstown's Theatre by the Lake, located in the Geiger Reeves Theatre on the Peddie School campus.

The comedy will play Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 23, 24 and 25 as the company's fifth and final production. Show time is 8:30 p.m.

Adapted form the film, "The Apartment," the musical has a book by Neil Simon and music by Burt Bachrach and Hal David. It's about four executives who "just need a place to take a girl," and an ambitious accountant who has an empty apartment. There's a waitress for whom the accountant yearns, her married boyfriend who happens to be the accountant's boss, and so on and so on.

Amsterdam. It's a wonderful city. Small streets hurry in and out and twist among themselves. There are many quaint little shops, baroque buildings, much local color. Canals intersect the city unexpectedly; barges wait for traffic lights. See Rembrandt's house, the House of the Sculptured Heads. Enjoy the lapse of centuries to be found in the byways on the outskirts of the city. Amsterdam, It's an experience you won't forget.

CLASSY PAIR: Glenda Jackson and George Segal find that starting on affair is as difficult as ending one in "A Touch of Class," now playing at the Garden.

Ed Cimbala, Bob Smith and Anne Brockway are in the cast.

SHE'S A PUSSYCAT

He's an Owl. The 1964 Broadway hit, "The Owl and the Pussycat," filmed in 1970 with considerable success, is now at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, live with John Svar as the "owl," and Nicki Kaplan as the pussycat.

The comedy will play through Sunday, August 26 with performances at 8:30 p.m., 6 p.m. Sundays and 2 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays. There will be no performance Tuesday, August 21.

"The Owl and the Pussycat" tells about a book-worm and a sex kitten. Somewhat incompatible at first, they later become attracted and attached to each other, and end up learning a lot about life as a result of this attraction and attachment.

FAMILY FUN

With George Washington. When a New York businessman buys a run-down Bucks County farmhouse in the belief that "George Washington Slept Here," the result is a Moss Hart-George S. Kaufman comedy. It will be presented Friday and Saturday, August 24 and 25 as the final production of the Princeton Summer Repertorie Theatre Company.

As before, the company will appear in the bandroom of Princeton High School with an 8 p.m. curtain. Admission is $1.

Lawrence A. Mansier is directing a cast headed by Chris Negus and Elizabeth Jacobs. They will star as Newton and Annabelle, the husband and wife who buy the house in which the General — so it is said — once snored away a few evening hours.

Madge, the daughter, is Miriam Lewin. Liz Bolick plays a wise-cracking friend of the family. Jay Panzer is the real estate agent, and Wendi Hall is the maid.

These characters are enough to make Newton's life hectic, but with the addition of two neighbors, played by Corinne Colman and Nicholas Halpern, a summer actor from the nearby playhouse (Robert Little); Uncle Stanley (Chrsitopher Loye), the "rich relation" of the Fuller family; and Raymond (Kevin Colman), a nephew who could give a headache to an aspirin, even the complications get more complicated.

The deepest well in the country is dry, the only road to the house, as well as the mortgage on it, is owned by a nasty neighbor, the actor absconds with the daughter, cows get into the kitchen, a storm breaks loose, a mysterious map turns up and everything comes out right in the end.

AUDIENCE CAN ACT, TOO

To Murder Mystery. If you take the Street Theatre ad that ran in the July 5 issue of TOWN TOPICS to the theatre's performance of "The Night of January 16," you'll be eligible to be chosen as a member of the jury that will

EXPANSION UNDER WAY

At Flemingtoo Furs. The Flemington Fur Company, already one of the world's largest specialists in furs, is expanding its Flemington shop for the 15th time in the past 20 years.

Flemington Furs recently purchased at auction the former Hunterdon County Library building, located adjacent to the company's facilities on Spring Street, in the Hunterdon County seat. The addition of the former library's 11,000 square feet of space brings to 42,000 the number of square feet in use by the firm at its Flemington site.

The additional space will allow the company to double the size of its on site fur manufacturing facilities, as well as to enlarge the vaults that house the company's huge stock of fine quality furs — already the largest such collection under one roof in the world.

The showroom area will also be increased two-fold, with significant expansion of areas devoted to "Fun Furs" and the "Father's Revenge" shop featuring furs, leathers, suedes and imported outerwear for men.

Opened in 1921. Housed in one small building less than one-tenth the size of the present facilities when it first opened its doors in 1921, Flemington Fur Company has grown to be the world's second largest fur concern.

The company's integrated fur operations include what President S. Rodgers Benjamin calls the "total fur concept".

Revolutionary in the fur industry when first implemented, this concept encompasses purchase of fur pelts at the primary levels, strict quality control in the design and manufacture of its fur garments plus direct sale to the consumer.

Flemington Fur's expansion plans haven't impeded its ability to produce an eye-catching 1974 collection.

"Today's woman wants freedmo to choose from a wide variety in fashion, and she feels free, as well, to wear what she wants to wear when she wants to wear it," observes Mr. Benjamin.

"Mini-Jackets." One of the most striking examples of this variety in the new fur collection is seen in the new short lengths — including "mini-jackets" that reach to the waist, jackets featuring the popular "shirt look" and multi-purpose coats at fingertip lengths.

As always, Mink in a variety of tones and shades from bright whites and subtle beiges to deep, lush browns and blacks is a favorite for 1974 in the shorter lengths, as well as in longer coats. The popular new jackets are also striking in a variety of other fine furs including fox, sable, broadtail and chinchilla.

Among the longer coats, a variety of lengths, designed to please a diversity of individual preferences, is in evidence in the Flemington Fur collection for 1974. While many of the striking coats created by Flemington's award - winning staff

AND THE SHORT OF IT: Flemington Furs calls this piece, fashioned from Natural Red Fox, combined with Red Fox pow and suede, either a mini-jocket, flight jocket or bottle jocket. About $695.

Just One Thing For Sale at Book Mart

The Princeton Book Mart has just one specialty — books. There are no cards, toys or little counter items, just books representing every conceivable interest that will keep you browsing well beyond the end of your lunch hour.

Ralph Shadovitz, the owner, believes in browsing and his staff will not disturb you, unless of course you request help. Near the counter there is a large bookcase where all the new books are placed for the first two days after they are unpacked, and this is the perfect spot to begin looking.

Not only is it fun to see what is currently being ordered, but the volume is astounding when you realize that this bookshelf changes totally every other day.

Throughout the store the books are stacked to the ceiling and include history, crafts, fiction, nature, decorating, mysteries, children's, and many others including your favorite local author. The Princeton area has many.

Then in the basement, there is a huge selection of paperback books arranged by subject. While these generally reflect the academic interests of the town, there are many for a wider interest.

Princeton Book Mart, 11 Palmer Square West, opens daily at 10, and closes Monday to Thursday at 5:30. Friday and Saturday the store closes at 5.

It's New To Us

of designers hover at the knee or fall in full elegance to the floor, there are numerous "in-between" lengths, too.

No greater demonstration of versatility in fur fashion is seen than the novel "zip-off" coats that are perfect for evening wear in full length until the lower section is quickly removed with the aid of a hidden zipper, and the coat is automatically altered to knee length for daytime wear.

Combinations of leather-and-fur and fur-on-fur, painstakingly hand-pieced, provide a wealth of interesting effects in coats of long and short length including plaids, checks, stripes and unusual "stained-glass" and other patterns. Added to the brighter-than-ever-before color range in furs, these provide the utmost in originality for the fur buyer who seeks distinctiveness.

The 1974 collection also includes a vast array of fresh treatments of the time - honored classics in coats, stoles and capes that have been best-sellers for years.

For men, Flemington Furs has assembled its largest collection ever of bold, masculine furs featured in the newly - expanded "Father's Revenge" shop.

COOLING THOUGHTS

At Bellows. One recent muggy, 90-degree afternoon, we encountered the cool, soft world of Fall at Bellows. Walking about in air-conditioned comfort, the new sweaters, slacks and dresses soon had us thinking about football games and cooler weather.

Sweaters are definitely the big look for this season, especially the longer lengths and cables. Known as fanny sweaters because of the length, they are worn over blouses or other sweaters. One brown or grey tweed sweater with cables and pockets is ribbed at the waist and has a shawl collar, $33.

Then there are sweater sets. One in a green or brown argyle pattern has a sleeveless shell that stops at the waist, $27, while the matching v-neck long-sleeved sweater is much longer, $35. These sweaters are made of nylon, acrylic and mohair blend, and they are wonderfully soft.

The sweater theme is not limited to sportswear, but is also evident among the dresses. Here, in a yummy red we admired a three-piece outfit—a cabled skirt, matching scoop-necked long-sleeved sweater and white blouse, $98.

Another pretty dress to wear a dozen places is a grey acrylic knit with long sleeves and a mock turtle neck topping a crocheted skirt, $54.

Mrs. Wick, Bellow's dress buyer, told us that camel and grey were the two most important colors for this season, and Anne Fogarty has used each for a solid and matching set. The top sweater has a plaid front of grey and blue or camel and coral, $98. This same sweater also comes with a solid grey or camel long sleeveless dress for evening wear, $110.

By Gavi, we admired a classic grey jersey knit dress with white satin collar and cuffs, topped off with a black satin bow, $84. This dress also comes in a long version with glitter buttons and a belt accenting the slightly raised waistline, $94.

For evening the clothes go from the long casual sweater dresses mentioned above to lots of glitter. Ink green is another color we noticed for this fall, and in this Bellow's has a long slinky jersey with a soft draped yoke, $64; or a long-sleeved straight-lined dress covered with dark green sequins.

Another look we haven't seen for a few years is what Mrs. Wick called "the cold shoulder." This long black jersey bares a shoulder while the other is covered to the wrist, $64.

However, if you prefer combining co-ordinates to create your own look, there are lots of separates to set your mind racing. By Evan Picone there is a soft, kasha cloth shirt jacket with a tie waist, $48. Then to complement it, there is a matching skirt, $32, or lined slacks, $36, or a pleated skirt in a red, blue and camel plaid, $32.

Hooper by Bleyle has a handsome well-tailored grey plaid blazer, $90, which can be matched with knit slacks, $36, for the day.

The Anne Klein clothes had not arrived the day we were at Bellows, but they plan to have a full line this year. This even includes perfume and colored stockings in addition to the sportswear, dresses and coats.

Ticktiner of France makes some of the prettiest sportswear we have seen, with unbelievably soft fabrics and lines. Our favorite was a bias skirt in a camel, red and black plaid, which comes with a co-ordinated patterned blouse and a camel sweater with red and black banding. This line is new at Bellows this year and well worth seeing.

Bellows, located at 210 Nassau Street is open Monday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. render a verdict at the end of the play.

"The Night of January 16" will be given Wednesday through Sunday, August 22-26. Starting Wednesday, performances will be given in East Windsor, at Princeton High School, Van Ness Park in West Windsor, Riverside School and Palmer Square. Curtain time, 8 p.m. If you want to be a juror, go early.

The 12 volunteers, chosen from those who have the ad with them, will sit as a jury through three acts of evidence and suspense. At the end of the play and a few moments of deliberation, they will give their verdict.

GARDEN

A Touch of Class (now playing) is the kind of quiet little film, that must make its own way without a lot of advance buildup and ballyhoo, and consequently may be overlooked.

No best-selling book to pave the way, nor big name stars or X-rating, this lively romantic comedy has much to commend it. Glenda Jackson and George Segal are cast as a couple of wayward souls involved in trying to set up an affair.

Several accidental meetings finally lead to a carefully planned rendezvous in an apartment, where Segal suggests a more permanent affair. Miss Jackson agrees and that's where the real complications begin.

Both Segal and Miss Jackson give fine performances. Her quiet stares and barbs-from-repose find a fine complement in the full grin slightly nutty good humor of Segal. He does overplay just a bit, but he makes his somewhat klunky insurance executive one of the world's more attractive fools. And a definite plus for the film is some beautiful witty dialogue.

If you caught "Day of the Jackal" last weekend, "A Touch of Class," should prove an interesting diversion on a hot summer's night.

PLAYHOUSE

The Day of the Jackal. If you liked the book, you will like the movie. Fred Zinnemann's film version is well-cast, well developed and has his usual meticulous eye for riveting detail.

As readers of the best seller know, Jackal is the code name given a professional hired to kill French President Charles DeGaulle. History tells us DeGaulle did not die from an assassin's bullet, so the only question that really occupies the book and the film is how will he be stopped.

The acting and attention to detail as the Jackal tries to outwit entire French officialdom (they know he is in the country, they know his goal, but all they know is his code name) is masterfully done. Edward Fox, a beaky, pale Englishman is first rate as the Jackal. A scene in which he tests his specially made rifle on a melon — and we see how deadly he and his gun are — is well done.

But in the end, "Jackal" is a good suspense thriller that has everything but the one thing it should have: suspense. (PG)

MONTGOMERY

The Friends of Eddie Coyle (now playing) is a cops-and-hoods film of the new genre made popular by "The French Connection" and "The New Centurions." Unfortunately, it is short on the high-powered action these two possessed.

Certainly, it incorporates the new attitudes. Cops are to be sweaty, faulty men, somewhat ignorant with questionable morality and a sometimes itchy trigger finger, who manipulate the law for any number of reasons some good, some bad. Crooks are blue-collar business men and passionless hustlers who use a gun like a ballpoint pen.

Caught in the middle of all this is Robert Mitchum as Eddie Coyle, a cheap Boston hood, so mired in the rackets that there's no way to get out and caught eternally between the law and the mob.

To keep the law happy and avoid a jail sentence for a previous crime, he has to become a "stoolie," to keep his mobster "friends" quiet, he is forced to hustle up guns for them.

With slangy and rather dirty dirty dialogue almost lifted intact from George Higgins' book, the film is nothing if not realistic, but not much more than that. It deals so matter-of-factly with all the characters, there isn't much chance to get involved, no one to root for, not even Eddie. Robert Mitchum does a good enough job with what he is given, but he should have been given far more.

PRINCE

Jesus Christ Superstar. A hip, contemporary rock opera that brings the reverent, Biblical Jesus Christ down from the stained glass windows.

Fundamentalists may be jarred at seeing crowds wearing long hair, blue jeans and T shirts, but the film has been embraced by the young people as one that speaks in their idiom. The rock opera itself is a mixture of musical styles, pop culture and religion.

Tom Neeley, who had played Jesus in Broadway and Los Angeles stage productions, stars in the title role. Carl Anderson is Judas; Yvonne Elliman, Mary Magdalene; and Barry Dennen, Pontius Pilate.

UNDERCOUNT FOUND

For Census on Blacks In every U.S. census from 1880 to 1970 there has been an undercount of the nation's black population amounting to 8 percent or more, according to estimates prepared by two demographers at the Office of Population Research at Princeton University.

Their estimates also provide new figures for the birthrate of the black population, which has not been known for the years prior to the mid 1930's, because of the very incomplete registration of births.

The research was carried out by Dr. Ansley J. Coale, Director of the Office of Population Research, assisted by Dr Norfleet Rives, Jr., now of the University of Delaware. The results appear in the new issue of Population Index, a quarterly bibliography published by the Office of Population Research.

The extent of the undercount of the black population became apparent when the two researchers constructed estimates of the true size of the black population, by age and sex, from 1880 to 1970. The overall omission of blacks ranged from a high of approximately 15 percent in 1920 to a low of some 8 percent in 1970.

The undercount in each census varied with age, and at most ages was different for males and females. From 1880 to 1910, the undercounts of all children under five and of females (but not males) over 50, were as great as 20 percent, more than twice the overall undercount. In the two most recent censuses — 1960 and 1970 — the greatest undercounts are of males 20 to 40 years old, who are underreported at least twice as much as females at the same ages.

Estimates of the true size of the black population and its distribution by age and sex were obtained by a mathematical reconstruction of the population, using the fact that gains or losses of the black population through international migration have been of negligible magnitude.

The reconstruction was initiated by Dr Coale, who, in 1963, had coauthored a reconstruction of the native white population by single years of age. A reconstruction of the black population in this detail was not possible because of more extensive and more erratic misrecording of age of the black population in the earlier censuses.

In 1971, Dr Coale received an informal inquiry from the United States Bureau of the Census about the possibility of devising new procedures to reconstruct the black population by five year age intervals, and thereby to estimate the completeness of enumeration in the 1970 census. The result of his inquiry was a joint agreement with the Census Bureau for the support of the research project.

The newly published estimates are similar to estimated undercounts of the black population in 1960 and 1970 released by the Bureau of Census in late April of this year, but supplement the estimates released by the Census by providing figures for undercounts in the 10 most recent decennial enumerations.

A Ticket for A Stamp?

Parking meters have begun to sprout in front of the post office on Palmer Square, and the unwary had better start to be wary.

Half a dozen meters will allow you just 30 minutes to jump out, poke in your coins and run into the post office for a stamp. Whether the 30 minutes will give you enough time to mail a Christmas package only time will tell you. And don't forget — there is no longer a branch post office in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Until now, non-metered parking has allowed, theoretically, a 15-minute stop. But Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney says what everybody knows — the privilege has been abused by a lot of 15 minute plus drivers.

WOMEN ARE PREFERRED

By Mosquitoes. Do mosquitoes prefer biting women rather than men? Research data seem to indicate that this is the case, but a Rutgers graduate student believes that body hair, not sex, is the determining factor.

"When both sexes are unprotected, the women are bitten more often," says Joseph L. Lomax of the Department of Entomology and Economic Zoology, who regularly test insect repellents every summer with student help.

"But when repellent is applied, the numbers average out to only a little difference. After the repellent wears off, those with the least body hair are usually bitten first and more frequently."

For the entire month of June, Mr. Lomax led a group of three boys and three girls, all present or former Rutgers students, on a repellent-testing project in Baxter State Park in Maine. Shorts and long hair were standard for everyone, and the girls avoided using perfumes, hair sprays or cosmetics that might attract or repel insects.

Testing Repellents. "The main purpose of the tests was to compare the effectiveness of various repellents," Lomax notes. "We would cover our arms, legs, and faces in the morning, and then under light work conditions such as moderate hiking or chores around the cabins, wait for the repellent to wear off.

"We judged the time from first to fifth bite as partial protection and after that as failure. Most of the better repellents gave complete protection (nn bites) for eight hours when properly applied. A few of the more rceent preparations went as high as 13."

"In a way I was glad to get bitten," says Mary Schmidt, who graduated from Douglass this year. "It usually meant the end of a long day."

Mary and the other students estimate that their pay averaged out to 36 cents a bite. "No one got rich at this rate," she comments, "but I felt it was definitely a worthwhile experience."

Scream Repels Bear. Besides mosquitoes, there was also a black bear to contend with one night as one of the girls came nose to nose with it while testing repellents. She screamed, and the bear fled.

In addition to repellents, the students tested other devices. A gadget now on the market that produces an ultra-high frequency sound was found completely ineffective. But a slow-burning substance (resembling incense) containing the insecticide pyrethrin kept mosquitoes away if used in a campsite or backyard in still air.

Mr. Lomax has been leading repellent testing teams for six years, but only recently has he used an equally divided coed team.

"Women use repellents as much as men," he says, "and that is the way repellents should be tested. This unisex approach carried through into other areas as well. Sometimes the men cooked and washed dishes, and the women chopped wood and carried ice."

Register to Vote

If you're a voter who needs to register you may do so this Thursday between 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. in Borough Hall, if you are a Borough resident, and Tuesday, September 4 at the same hours, if you live in the Township.

These are two of the four special registration dates scheduled before the registration deadline September 27. The other two dates are Thursday, August 23 at the Harrison Street Firehouse for Borough residents and Wednesday, September 19 at the Hibben-Magee Apartments for Township voters.

Also, the week of September 20-27, there will be evening registration (6:30-9 p.m.) every weekday in both Borough and Township Halls.

You may register if you turn 18 by November 6, and live in New Jersey by September 27. You must reregister if you haven't voted in the past four general elections, have moved within the state, county or town, or have changed your name.

SEXISM AMONG MOSQUITOES: — Although mosquitoes bite women more often than men when both sexes are unprotected, they are not sexists according to a graduate assistant in entomology at Rutgers University. Joseph L. Lomax say his research indicates that persons with the least hair are bitten first.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen. The House has embarked on yet another collision course with the President. By a vote of 254-164, the House passed an "anti-impoundment" measure similar in intent to one recently approved in the Senate.

I voted against the bill. If the House and Senate agree on the exact language — and this is to be expected — the bill will be sent to the President who is almost certain to veto it. Since the House vote was 25 short of the two-thirds necessary to override a Presidential veto, it looks as if legislation will not be enacted.

In other words, another futile confrontation is being developed, similar to the one which resulted from the passage of War Powers legislation by the House and Senate two weeks ago.

This impoundment measure passed by the House contains two major provisions. Title I would require the President, when he or any officer of the Executive Branch withholds or delays the expenditure of funds appropriated for a specific purpose or project, to transmit within ten days a special message to both the House and Senate specifying the amount impounded, the projects affected and the reasons for impoundment.

If within 60 days either House by simple resolution disapproves, the President would be required to cease the impoundment. (This provision seems to me unwise as both House and Senate should be in agreement on matters of this kind.) Title II of the bill would establish a ceiling on budget outlays for fiscal year 1974 or $267.1 billion, and requires the President to meet the ceiling by making proportional cuts in all but a few programs.

Reason for Bill. The impetus behind this measure can be found in a series of impoundments announced by the Administration in January of this year. The nature, and scope, of some of these impoundments led to charges that the President had overstepped his authority by unilaterally setting aside Congressionally approved programs he deemed less worthy than others, thus in effect nullifying national policies established by Congress.

Differing sets of figures led to wide differences in estimates of the amounts impounded. The low figure, cited by the Administration, was $8.7 billion, while some critics insisted that total impoundments ran as high as $18 billion.

Considerable concern has been expressed that the President, by his wife ranging use of the impoundment procedure, was in effect deciding which programs should be continued, which should be continued at a different level and which should be eliminated.

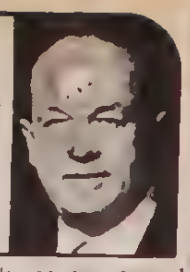
The Governor's VIEW



By Gov. William T. Cahill

Some are buried in the avalanche of news generated by Washington and by our election here in New Jersey. But there were several important announcements affecting mass transportation developments in our State.

I think they merit review for several reasons. One is that mass transit is one of those areas where people readily see the problem but are unaware of the progress. Consequently, we hear the constant cry, "Why doesn't somebody do something?" Somebody is.

A second reason is the fact that mass transit affects everybody, whether or not we use its services and even whether or not we live in areas where it is available. Mass transit is kinder to our environment.

It doesn't pollute the atmosphere nearly to the extent that motor vehicles do. It utilizes less landscape than highways, and it helps to ease congestion on existing roads.

While autos are proliferating too rapidly for mass transit to dramatically reduce the number of cars on the highways, it is equally obvious that traffic congestion would be worse without existing mass transit.

Our efforts to improve and extend existing systems are producing results.

High-Speed Rail Link. The most visible progress surfaced in last May when the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey announced it had begun test borings in Newark along McCarter Highway and the Penn Central viaduct for one of the key projects in its $650 million plan for a high speed rapid rail link between Newark Airport and Plainfield.

The action followed only weeks after the New York Legislature had approved the PATH (Port Authority Trans Hudson) system extension. Similar legislation was passed by the New Jersey Legislature last December.

Almost simultaneously South Jersey mass transit developments moved a giant step forward with the announcement by the Delaware River Port Authority that it had received a federal grant of $36 million for improvements to its world-leading Lindenwold High Speed Line.

The funds will enable construction of an additional station linking the line with Interstate Route 295, the purchase of additional transit cars and other technical improvements.

In addition to the test borings on the Plainfield extension of PATH, design work is proceeding on the work of delivering, for the first time, the Erie Lackawanna commuters directly to Penn Station in midtown Manhattan instead of them having to change in Hoboken.

Now in the design state, the work includes tracks, structure, train control systems, electrification, stations, maintenance facilities and car equipment.

The Authority has assigned a task force of approximately 50 planners, engineers and railroad experts to carry the projects through final design and into construction phases.

Substantial progress has also been made in the tedious process of securing federal funds for these projects. The Urban Mass Transportation Administration has approved two technical studies grants to complete some preliminary engineering. Grants totaling $1.4 million have been approved from fiscal 1973 funds.

Rail Planning Program. Comprehensive community contract programs have begun design to advise the affected communities of the

In South Jersey, the massive studies connected with any federally financed projects are being completed and engineering studies launched preliminary to starting work on the Lindenwold Line improvements.

This line, still the most modern and sophisticated of any transit system in the world, links suburban Camden County with Center City Philadelphia. In addition to the plans and to ascertain what plans the communities have that could affect the rail planning program new station at Woodcrest adjacent to Interstate Route 295, the improvements include changes at the eastern terminal station at Lindenwold and the addition of 45 new transit cars.

Preliminary planning is also underway to explore the possibility of extending the service eastward to the town of West Berlin.

Although the pace, at times, seems maddeningly slow, we are moving forward with our mass transit improvements—probably at least as rapidly as any State in the nation.

This major withholding of funds, in my opinion, represents an abuse of the impoundment procedure as it has been understood. If significant programs are to be abandoned or curtailed, it should be done jointly by Congress and the President.

Nixon's Reasons. The impoundments, according to the President, were necessitated in part because of the inability of Congress to hold spending below a fixed ceiling thru a comprehensive and coordinated approach to the Congressional budget process.

It is, of course, time that Congress could obviate the need for impoundment, or at least sharply reduce its utilization, if we were willing to overhaul the budgetary machinery and develop effective mechanisms for controlling spending.

My primary reservation about this impoundment legislation is that it does not address itself adequately to this continuing problem of Congressional responsibility.

Rather, it may even encourage Congress to approve high levels of spending, imposing on the President the necessity of making the necessary but unpopular budget cuts. By limiting the President's power to impound he, in effect, is being told to spend the amounts appropriated by Congress even though this may be far in excess of his budget; however, at the same time he is directed to restrict spending to an over all level.

This is not a responsible way to "reassert" the Congressional power of the purse. The first priority of Congress should be to put its own fiscal house in order — not to engage the President in futile and mutually damaging confrontations.

Nature Wins — For 24 Hours

To the Editor of Town Topics:

For a blissful 24 hours, the University closed off our street. We were able to hear bird songs in the morning, the soft patter of rain in the afternoon, and the chirps of crickets and katydids at night as we breathed in the smell of new-cut grass unmixed with auto fumes. We walked on our street in the true quiet of the evening and felt a closeness to nature.

Now the cars have taken over again. From time to time a truck or a bus roars by, or a motorcycle jangles our ears.

We are no longer open but on guard against the monsters of our modern world. Every age has had its dragons to fight. But in our age man has himself created a kind of a dragon, the automobile.

"Faster, faster," we say, like the red queen in "Alice In Wonderland." We are arrogant and proud as we drive in our steel-enclosed cars like Toad of Toad Hall in "The Wind In the Willows." My husband and I own two cars, and we too are creators of the problem.

The proliferation and over use of cars is like a plague in our country. The car is a dragon to be fought or controlled. Car manners (giving way to and slowing down for pedestrians, braking for animals, courtesy and consideration for others on the road) could be taught in schools starting with third graders. Quiet, exhaust-free and limited-speed cars could be built.

The use of bicycles and walking could be encouraged. Gas rationing might reduce the numbers of cars on the road. If these things were implemented we could approach more closely the kind of environment that enhances our lives.

Thank you, Princeton University, for closing down our street for that one day and making us aware of so much beauty and peace that we've been missing.

Would someone care to explain why Mrs. Jane Kerney is earning almost $100 a week for a job that consists of 10 hours a week? Come now, what seems to be going on?

MRS. DEE SMYTH

67 Jefferson Road

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Jane Kerney is the administrator for the Borough's new rent levelling ordinance. When her appointment was announced at last week's Borough Council meeting, officials neglected to say that the job has been changed from a half-time position, which would have paid $4,300 a year, to an hourly-rate position. Mrs. Kerney's pay will be about $4.50 an hour on this basis, according to Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney.)

Street Theater Praised.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

While visiting Princeton I had the pleasure of seeing and enjoying the wonderful young performers in the Street Theatre's productions of "The Hospital, or Play in Progress" and "42nd Street Aggravation."

These young performers are to be congratulated for their wonderful entertainment for senior citizens.

12 Friends of Art Museum Name New Officers, Plan Busy Fall Season

Mrs. Wendell Davis of 161 Hodge Road has been elected President of the Friends of the Art Museum, Princeton University, for the coming year She succeeds Carl D Reimers as head of the 1200 member community organization which supports the Museum with an extensive program of activities

Mrs Davis, a resident of Princeton for 22 years, served as Special Events Chairman for the Friends for the past five years She was in charge of arrangements for the festivities which marked the opening of the Norton Simon loan show at the Museum last December, including a dinner for 750 given by Mr Simon in Jadwin Gym

She has been active on the boards of the Visiting Nurse Association, Princeton Day School and the Garden Club Mrs Davis was executive secretary to General Omar Bradley, when he was Chief of Staff of the Armed Forces

Elected to serve with her as vice president of the Friends is Mrs. Richard Stillwell. Mrs Walter B. W. Wilson and Henry Patton have been re elected secretary and treasurer

Newly appointed for three year terms on the board of directors are James C. Crimmins, Mrs. Edward Elliott, William H. Forsyth, Mrs. Irving B. Kingsford, Mrs Gerard B Lambert, Mrs. Leighton H. Laughlin, Mrs. Carl D. Reimers, Mrs. Lyman Spitzer, Jr. and Mrs. Stillwell.

MUSEUM DIRECTOR: Peter C. Bunnell is director of the University Art Museum which will have its formal opening for the new year on October 11.

ART In Princeton

Ex-Officio Members. Peter Bunnell, Museum Director; David Steadman, Associate Director; Prof. John R. Martin, new Chairman of the Department of Art and Archaeology; David H. McAlpin, Chairman of the Advisory Council of the Art Museum; and Robert Peck, president of the Student Friends, are ex-officio members, while Mrs. William G. Bowen, wife of the University president; Prof. Wen Fong, and Prof. Rensselaer W. Lee are honorary members.

Non-voting appointees of the president are Mrs. Edward M. Crane, Mrs. Arthur P. Morgan, Mrs Robert Woods Johnson, Jr. and Mrs. Albridge C. Smith, III, who will assist with mailing, special events, and membership.

Membership in the Friends is open to all, with dues starting at $10. With attendance at the Museum increasing steadily (it more than doubled this year), Mrs. Hamilton Cottier, Membership chairman, is looking toward expanded enrollment, prticularly from the Princeton area and nearby Central New Jersey and Bucks County communities, to which the Museum is accessible.

The Friends' calendar coincides with the academic year, and the first event scheduled is the formal opening of the first exhibit of the season at the Museum, on October 11. Application for or renewal of membership should be made before that time, to take full advantage of the program. Membership blanks are available at the Museum, or from Mrs. Cottier, 4 Orchard Circle.

An Opening in Costume. Four other openings for members are planned, including a spring gala in Victorian costume Members also receive a quarterly newsletter and calendar of events, the twice-yearly "Record of the Art Museum", a scholarly Museum publication supported by the Friends, and they have the opportunity to participate in planned gallery tours and lectures, and trips to other museums.

Membership dues and an annual benefit art tour are the chief sources of funds. This year two of the Friends' most successful past art tours will be repeated. in February, Gillett Griffin will conduct a tour of "The World of Ancient Maya", and in May, a tour of "The Palaces of Venice and the Veneto" will once again benefit both the Museum and the restoration work of Venice.

Friends' funds are used not only for openings, publications, mailings, but most importantly for major purchases for the Museum collections; $20,000 is budgeted for this purpose next year. These annual gifts to the Museum have made possible acquisitions which could not otherwise have been purchased. This June the Friends donated an exquisite small bronze Etruscan statuette, in honor of Miss Frances Jones, Curator of Classical Art, in recognition of 30 years of service on the Museum staff.

The Friends also provide the seasonally - changed fresh plantings at the Museum; they hold a reception for Freshman parents, and support the Student Friends. This campus offshoot, already the largest undergraduate organization, also anticipates increased membership under Director Bunnell, who aims to make the Museum "a focal point for the student body".

The Princeton University Art Museum is one of the oldest in the country, having been established in 1864. The present modern museum building, with its outstanding collection ranging from ancient to modern times, was completed and dedicated in June, 1966.

The Friends of the Art Museum, organized informally in 1950, was reactivated and formally established at that time. As the Museum has grown in importance and use, so have the services and support of its volunteer adjunct, the Friends of the Art Museum.

EXHIBIT CONTINUES

Cruikshank Art on View. An exhibit of several hundred items selected from Princeton University's extensive collection of material by the 19th century British illustrator George Cruikshank continues on view in the main gallery of the Harvey S. Firestone Library.

"The Artist as Illustrator of His Age: The World of George Cruikshank" may be viewed Monday through Saturday from 9 until 5 and on Sundays from 2 until 5. The exhibit will continue through September 30.

Arranged by Robert S Fraser, Curator of Rare Books, this major display traces Cruikshank's career from his early depiction of political topics and social foibles of the 1820's to his pictorial support of the British temperance movement several decades later.

"Cruikshank's artistic achievement is virtually inexhaustible in its surprises," points out Professor E. Dudley H. Johnson, Chairman of Princeton's Department of English, in a just published booklet on the University's Cruikshank holdings, copies of which may be purchased at the exhibit. The 36-page Johnson pamphlet precedes its appearance next fall in the double issue of "The Princeton University Library Chronicle" devotde to Cruikshank.

GROUNDBREAKING SET

For Lawrence Mall. Ceremonial ground breaking may take place in one to two weeks for the $20 million Quaker Bridge Mall planned for Route One and Quakerbridge Road in Lawrence Township.

Robert Girling, vice - president of development for Kravco, Inc., which is developing the mall with R. H. Macy, has told the Lawrence Planning Board that the names of all five major department stores will be announced at that time.

Macy's has already announced that Bamberger's, a subsidiary of R. H. Macy will be built in the first phase along with two other major department stores and some 90 smaller retail stores. The Planning Board began its site plan review of the proposed mall last week. This Phase One construction, about 050,000 square feet, is scheduled for completion by late 1975 or early 1976.

The second phase will include two major department stores with an additional 40 to 50 smaller retail stores covering 450,000 square feet. The entire mall should be finished by 1977, Mr. Girling said. About 12 parking areas are planned, including one parking lot for an automotive center, which will be operated by one of the large department stores. About 6,500 cars are expected to be accommodated.

Planning Board member Anthony Vocolo gain proposed an overpass for the Route 1 entrance to the mall, but Vincent Iavarone of Macy's planning and development department said he believed traffic lights at the intersectinn would be sufficient. He added that if the state ever decides to replace traffic lights on Route One with overpasses, Macy's will do the same.

...because no two homes are alike.

A generation or so ago phone service meant simply having a phone. It was black and had a rotary dial.

But times have changed. Today, convenient phone service means having the right phone, in the right place. That's why we have different phones—all kinds—so you can choose the ones that are just right for you, as well as your home and family lifestyle.

Look around your home. Do you have phones where you need them most—where you live, work or simply spend a lot of your time?

Consider the phones shown here in relation to your home. If you think some changes are in order or want some advice, get in touch with your Service Representative. A call to your local Telephone Business Office will do the trick.

1. Our basic dial phone comes in wall and desk models — in decorator colors at no extra charge.
2. Modern Touch-Tone® service makes calling twice as fast, twice as easy. Available at a special bargain price if you need three or more.
3. The sculptured Trimline® phone puts everything right in the palm of your hand. Since you don't need the base to make a call and because it comes with a longer cord, you can tuck it in an out-of-the-way place.
4. Our stylish, practical Princess® phone. Soft 'night light' dial and compact size make it ideal for the bedroom.
5. The speakerphone lets you carry on a conversation 'hands-free.' Amplifies both sides of the conversation.
6. Card Dialer. It's a telephone . . . it's a memory bank. Frequently called numbers are recorded on plastic punch cards. To make a call, put the card in the slot and press a button.
7. Wall phones in various sizes, shapes and colors. Including our designer panel phone for the architectural built-in look.
8. If you have difficulty using the telephone, we have special equipment to make calling easier and more enjoyable. Including this phone — it helps you hear better.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you

By John Bernard

Here's one I bet you didn't know about golf. During the first few hundred years of golf, no one played the game with a golf tee. The golf tee wasn't invented until 1920. And it wasn't invented by a golf pro, but rather by a dentist in South Orange, N. J. William Lowell. He patented the first golf tee in 1920 and even then it took a few years till it was accepted by all golfers.

Anybody who ever had trouble getting a golf ball into the hole might be interested in knowing just how wide a golf hole is. It may seem smaller when youre putting, but the exact width is 4¼ inches.

Here's an oddity. Only once in big league baseball history has a team finished first one year, then last the next. That strange fate befell the Philadelphia A's of 1914-15. And what makes their fumble even more unbelievable is this. In 1914, when the A's won the pennant they finished 8½ games ahead. In 1915 they not only landed in last place, but they finished 58½ games behind!

I bet you didn't know that young couples should have our excess major medical insurance. If a child comes down with rheumatic fever, it can devastate the family's income forever. Here's the premium for a couple age 30 with two children—$88.35.

Bill Bradley to Return When Knicks Oppose Hawks Here September 25

Princeton University has announced the scheduling, on an experimental basis, of two professional sport benefit exhibitions in Jadwin Gymnasium during the next three months. The first is a National Basketball Association contest between the World Champion New York Knicks and the Atlanta Hawks on September 25. The second will be a tennis exhibition between two leading members of the pro circuit on December 1st.

In announcing the program, University officials pointed out that the two events are designed to benefit the entire community, both through the nature of the events themselves, and by distribution of a portion of the proceeds to charity- supported organizations. After expenses, proceeds of the basketball game will be given primarily to the Princeton Area United Community Fund, with some of the revenue also earmarked for the University's Scholarship Fund.

Proceeds of the tennis exibition will be divided between the Princeton Tennis Youth Foundation and the Friends of Princeton Tennis. The Youth Foundation sponsors an extensive community program for adults and youngsters of all ages.

Tickets for the Knicks-Hawks game will go on sale at Jadwin Gymnasium on Monday and will be on sale daily from 9-5. Tennis tickets will be put on sale in mid-September.

"Princeton has always enjoyed a close and successful relationship with the Princeton Community," University President William G. Bowen remarked. "It is a unique relationship in which the community and the university both recognize their self interests while dealing with common problems.

"We feel it is most important now to expand our contributions to the community through increased use of our highly modern, multi-purpose Jadwin facility for such events as the basketball game and the tennis match. We will be studying ways to expand that usage in the future to benefit the community in which we have such a large stake."

Princeton Township Mayor, Jay Bleiman was most enthusiastic about the announcement. "The purpose of these exhibitions is to bring to the public, for the benefit of the community, certain non-University- affiliated events that could not easily be held in Princeton without Jadwin Gymnasium," he said.

"We applaud this public-spirited gesture and are gratified that new ways are being found to allow the community to enjoy the advantages of this wonderful facility. I know the basketball game will be of great importance to the area United Fund people, and should help to start their fund drive on a successful and exciting note."

The game between the Knickerbockers and the Hawks will have a distinct Princeton flavor. Bill Bradley '65, three-year All-American and holder of virtually every Princeton individual basketball record, will be a member of New York's starting five.

In that role, he has made a major contribution to the winning of the NBA championship twice in the past four years. During his undergradunte years, Bradley led his Princeton teams to three Ivy League titles and to the semi-finals of the NCAA Tournament in 1965. His 2503 career points and 58 points in a single game are likely to last as long as the game retains its present format.

Atlanta, the runnerup last year in the NBA's Central Division, drafted Princeton's 1972-73 captain, Ted Manakas last spring. Manakas, one of eleven Tigers to top the 1000-point plateau in his career, earned enormous honors in his senior year as his playmaking, shooting and steadiness led the Tigers to a 16-9 mark and runnerup spot in the Ivy League. The Hawks aer led in scoring by Pete Maravich.

SPECIAL DAYS PLANNED

For Prnicetoa Foothall. Princeton University's athletic department has announced an extensive promotional program for the 1973 football season.

According to Athletic Director Royce Flippin, there will be three special "Youth Days," two "Family Days" and a "Mercer County Day."

The Youth Days are scheduled for the Colgate game on October 20, the Brown contest on November 3 and the November 24 battle with defending Ivy League champion Dartmouth. Under the plan, all children through 18 years of age can purchase a ticket for $1.

The Family Day programs will also revolve round the Colgate and Brown contests, and will allow a maximum of seven family members to attend each game for $1 per person.

On Mercer County Day — Oct. 27 when Princeton entertains Penn — county residents will have the opportunity to buy a $3.50 ticket for $2. Adult identification of county residence wdl be required.

"By offering these three promotional programs we are emphasizing our interest in three key publics," Flippin said. "We want young people to become acquainted with college football. We want Princeton football to be a gathering place for families who can enjoy 3-4 hours together in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere, and we want to do something to show our thanks to Mercer County residents who have supported us over the years."

Further information on the Princeton promotions can be obtained by calling (609) 452-3538.

LAST TOURNAMENT HELD

Ia Summer Tennis Series. The series of Princeton Tennis Committee-YMCA sponsored tournaments which began the first week of July, ended this week with the mixed doubles. Dropping a tough first set, 6-7, Fleming and Schmidt went on to win the match, 6-3, 6-2. Showing early promise, the victorious pair upset the first seeds, Fritz and Puck Dumpel, in the first round, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3. Moving into the semi-finals, they upset fourth seed Marty and Dotty Katz, 6-3, 6-2, to gain the final round and the title

JUNIOR NETMEN EXCEL. In Trenton Championships, Jay Lapidus captured one singles and two doubles titles, and Dan Aronovic fought off an old nemesis to win another singles title in the Trenton Junior Tennis Championships.

Although eligible to compete in the 14 and under division, Lapidus chose to face the 16 and under singles field. He responded with his third major win of the season.

After losing only two games in four matches, he reached the semis against Greg Ewanizky, and defeated him in a three-hour match, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3. In the finals, Lapidus won another tough match, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, against Bob Weise.

In 16 and under doubles Lapidus teamed with Louis Meehan to defeat Andre Eichenberger and Aronovic, 6-1, 6-0.

Lapidus and Meehan also faced that same pair in the 14 and under doubles, and again were victorious.

Old Nemesis. Aronovic's victory in the 14 and under bracket was his first major sanctioned win. To achieve it he had to defeat Meehan, to whom he had lost in the semis of the Glassboro Tournament and also in the semis of the Lower Merion Championships. The score: 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.

Another Princeton junior, Eichenberger reached the semi finals of the 14 and under singles with upset wins over No. 6 seed John Quinn, 6-1, 6-1, in the third round, and then Robbie Bohin, the No. 4 seed, 6-3, 6-4, in the quarters.

Eichenberger then reached Meehan in the semis, however, and was defeated.

18 and Under. Charles Wightman lost a hard fought, three-set match in the 18 and under singles, and then paired with Randy Thomas to advance as far as the semis in the 18 and under doubles.

In girls 18 and under events, No. 2 seed Randy Gulick lost in the quarterfinals to Sharon Golin, 1-6, 6-4, 6-7, with the third set going to a 5-4 tie-breaker.

Heidi Eichenberger drew the top seed in her first-round match, and split sets before losing, 1-6, 7-5, 1-6.

Libby Hicks progressed to the semi-finals of the girls 14 and under singles, but then suffered a muscle spasm and was forced to default.

ENGLAND THE WINNER In "Davis Cup" Tennis. As the Davis Cup League team play came to an end, team standings showed that England is the winning team spearheaded by Jon Silverman, high scorer in his group. Captained by Princeton Community Tennis Program instructor Jeffrey Oakes, England took top honors totaling 558 points.

Germany came in second with 504. Italy posted 452 points, followed by Brazil, 432; Sweden 426; Canada and Mexico each with 390 and France with 373.

Members of the victorious English team were Nick Van de Walle, Steve Ebersole, Dwight Wilson, Patty Rose, Randy Symington, Leslie Krause, Susan Walker, Jon Silverman, David Fitzgerald, Steven Cragg, Ann Hackenberg, Sarah Healy, and Lisa Robbins.

Jon Silverman represented England as high scorer with 61 points. Other team high scorers were: Germany: Anatole Kim and Martin Gilvarg, 69; Italy's Beth Oglesby with 74, Kathy Barry of Brazil with 82, Sweden's Veronica Thompson with 70, Canada's Ann Magee with 77, Steve Pallrand and Carrie Balcomb, both earning 57 for Mexico and Jeff Kinsley with 49 for France.

The Davis Cup Tennis League competitions were under the supervision and direction of Joe Diefenbach, assisted by Vicki Flournoy. Each team was captained by an instructor from the Princeton Community Tennis Program. Active in this capacity were: Jeffrey Oakes, Michel Glouchevitch, Steve Kraft, Bill Foreman, Bruce Von Cannon, Sandy McLanahan, Steve Tobolsky and Chip Parmele.

All members playing for England and the high scorer for each of the other teams were recognized for their performance. They were awarded shirts emblazoned with the flag of the team-country they represented.

SWIM TEAM APPRAISED After Summer Competition. An end-of-season assessment of the progress made by the members of the Community Park Swim Team at the close of its first summer reveals "impressive strength", according to the team's coach, Lois Hector.

"Some outstanding performances at the Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Championships won us first place in Division II of the League," said Mrs. Hector. "And the cooperation and spirit shown by all the swimmers was remarkable."

Gates Beats Shillaber 5 and 4 To Keep Springdale Golf Title

Moore Gates, Jr.

If anyone had told Mosey Gates before he teed off Saturday in defense of his Springdale Golf Club title that he would shoot an 84 in the morning round and follow with a 41 on the first nine in the afternoon, his ever-ready smile might well have become a bit frozen.

Gates did (a 43-41—84, followed by another 41), but still managed to hold the upper hand when Bob Shillaber encountered a peck of trouble, too. Even though Shillaber pared his morning game of 45-43—88 to a two-over par 37 on the first nine after the luncheon break, Gates never trailed. He closed out the match on the 32d hole with a birdie 4, his 5-and-4 triumph making him the first club member to defend his title successfully since Art Schwartz did so in 1967.

Despite his inconsistent play in the morning, Gates held a 2-up lead after nine holes and had doubled that margin by the end of the first 18. His 41 going out in the afternoon should have been costly when his opponent shot a 37, but most of Shillaber's four-stroke margin occurred when he parred holes on which Gates required a double bogey.

Shillaber's deficit was down to three holes as the final nine began, and when Gates took eight shots on the 568-yard par 5 10th, Shillaber drew within two. Gates answered the challenge by shooting his best golf of the hot, humid day, winning three of the next four holes when he played them in one under par.

Par 4s on the 11th and 12th proved winners. The 183-yard 13th saw both players card par 3s, and Gates then birdied the 472-yard 14th when he sank his putt after reaching the green easily in 3.

To prove that the course isn't really as hard as he made it look in the club final, Gates shot a par-equalling 71 on Sunday while playing in a member-guest foursome tournament. His Springdale handicap is 3.

On his way to the finals, Gates eliminated Alan Frank, Jr., former champion Kester Pierson and Jack Mudge. Shillaber went 20 holes to win from 16-year old Chris Aldridge, who has a 3 handicap, and then 19 holes to oust Gil Spencer. His semi-final match was a 3-and-2 victory over Bill Quackenbush.

Final rounds in three other flights settled Saturday were unusually close. Karl Pettit, Jr. needed 20 holes to defeat Bill Millman in the match that decided the first flight.

Bob Olsson also went an extra hole to win the second flight from Ben Herrman after having been down 1 on the 18th tee. Don Conner was a 1 up victor in the third flight over Jimmy McCarthy.

In other action Saturday, Mickey Shannon scored an eagle 3 on the uphill, 520-yard eighth hole. Shannon hit a six wood some 170 yards away from the green that found its way into the cup.

the meet. Community Park, in its first year, placed 5th in total points.

Guy Dorgan, a member of Community Park team, was voted the most valuable male swimmer of the meet. He took three first place medals, setting two meet records in the process, and was on the 17/under 200 free relay that placed first and also set a record.

His two individual records were in the 50 yard freestyle and 50 butterfly, for boys 12 and under. He also won the 100 individual medley.

Of the 60 swimmers who worked out in the early mornings at Community Park pool, appriximately 25 were entered in the Area Championships. "Many of the others will be able to participate next year," said Mrs. Hector. "Their progress has been phenomenal."

Other members of the team who won first place points for the team included Guy Dorgan's older sister, Maura, who won the 17/under 50 backstroke, setting a meet record. She also took a second place in the 50 butterfly and a third place in the 100 individual medley.

Illana Dorin took first place in the 10/under 25 freestyle, and a third in the 25 backstroke. Brian Cooke also took first and a third, the former in the 17/under 50 butterfly, the latter in the 100 individual medley.

Second place medals were won by Lisa Clark, in the 8/under 25 freestyle, Dan Fasanella, in the 17/under 50 breaststroke, Chip Hector in the 6/under 25 freestyle, Chris Clark, who won two second places, in the 10/under 25 freestyle and 25 butterfly, and Keith Spaulding, in the 14/under 100 individual medley.

Relay Sixth. Heidi Faith won third place in the 17/under diving event. Katie Heinzel and Judy Wolfson also took thirds, in the 8/under 25 backstroke for Katie, and the 12/under 50 breaststroke for Judy. Lisa Cooke placed third in 17/under 50 butterfly and fourth in the 50 freestyle.

Pat Gibbs came in 5th in the 10/under 25 backstroke.

BANK GIVEN APPROVAL

In West Windsor. The West Windsor Township Committee granted a use variance to the West Windsor State Bank Monday night, bringing the bank one step closer to reality. Approval must also be given by the Township's Board of Health and site plan review board.

The new bank, which will give the Township its first home bank, will be located along the Princeton - Hightstown Road opposite Bohren's Moving and Storage Co. in Princeton Junction.

Construction of a permanent facility on the 2.3 acre parcel is due for completion by the end of 1974. Until then, the bank will be operating out of two trailers and part of the existing structure on the site. It is expected to be open in the fall.

VICE-PRESIDENT NAMED

For Henderson Hopewell Office. Arthur W. Berger has been appointed to a new position as vice president and office manager of Princeton realtor John T. Henderson's new Hopewell office at Hopewell House Square.

Mr. Berger has had much experience in real estate. As a licensed real estate broker in New Jersey, he has spent many years negotiating sales of residential properties, as well as handling commercial and industrial situations.

Mr. Berger's new duties will include management of all activities of Henderson's Hopewell office — supervision of personnel, listings, sales, property management, advertising, promotion and the entire real estate marketing mix.

A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music and graduate degrees and advanced studies at the University of Pennsylvania, Colonel Berger is an army veteran with World War II service in the U.S. Army, retiring as a reservist in 1963.

SALES INCREASE BY 20%

Profits Rise at Systemedics. First half sales figures were up by 20 percent at Systemedics Inc., President William Krause has reported to stockholders. For the period ending June 30, he listed revenues of $1,942,000, compared to $1,630,000 for the corresponding period in 1972.

Profits more than doubled ($168,000 over $67,000), while per share earnings rose from 5 to 15 cents. A utilization of loss carry forwards from prior years resulted in no tax payments.

Mr. Krause said that the rising sales and profits reflect the historical and continued pattern of the Company's growth since its inception, and he indicated he expected this growth to continue in both the company's basic business of medical data services, and related products and services. Included with the release to stockholders was a reprint of an article appearing in "Business Week" describing the Systemedics Health Tag, a wallet size medical record card. Mr. Krause said the company has received numerous inquiries as a result of the article expressing great interest in the program.

CONTE-STAATS WINS TWO

In PRO Softball. Extending its winning streak to eight games, Conte Staats surged to a quick 2-0 lead against Ivy Inn in the best of five championship series in the Princeton Recreation Department softball lead.

Conte-Staats nipped first-place finisher Ivy, 7-6, in the series opener last Thursday. On Monday C-S scored five runs in the top of the first inning and fought off a late Ivy rally to win again, 8-4.

Ivy had reached the finals by defeating Center Sports twice last week, 15-2 and 11-3.

The much improved Conte-Staats team knocked off Sannino's, 6-3, to decide second and third place in the regular league standings. Then it beat Sannino's again in two straight playoff games, 8-5 and 6-4, to move into the championship series.

Conte-Staats trailed Ivy, 4-1, in the fifth inning. But hits by Chuck Warshefski, Gary Drake, Wes Cawley, Jack Roberts and John Milchanoski yielded four runs.

Ivy Rally. C-S added two insurance runs in the top of the seventh on hits by Roberts, Milchanoski, Bill Staats and Frank Cawley. Ivy came back with two runs of its own, however on singles by Rich Volz and Dave Britton, before its rally fell short.

In the second game Conte-Staats once again made good use of its hitting. The team picked up a dozen hits, almost all singles, to score eight runs.

LEADING HITTERS: Bruce Chase (left), third basement for Sannino's, and George McVaugh, left fielder, are pacing the offense for their team in the Adult Softball League.

Chalk ware dog, 12" high, begging, a bank. Amber witch ball, blown as a commemorative gift in South Jersey. Names and dates given to buyer. A large jade green and gold punch bowl—probably "Old Paris."

Collection of decorated stoneware and redware well, we haven't seen any better collection at any shop or antique show, certainly not at our fair prices! We're constantly adding important pieces and selling more.

Handmade quilts, rare, good condition, dated from 1820-1840. Do go to New York City or New England and pay double if you enjoy spending money. Sterling souvenir spoons in a handmade rack. Maybe the rack was intended for pipes but spoons fit and it's nice anyhow.
